As a full-blooded entrepreneur, you know the answer. You need freedom to create and to realise your entrepreneurial vision. And let's be honest: writing payment reminders will only slow you down. Simply leave the annoying paperwork to our service-oriented accounts receivable management.

Two factors are decisive for you:

- 2. We work professionally, with sincerity and sensitivity. The reasons why one of your customers does not pay the invoice can be very diverse. They may also be personal or temporary. We do not want to put a lasting strain on the relationship between you and your customer. For this reason, our experts look after debtors on an industry-specific basis. We speak 14 languages. And when it comes to debt collection cases, we coordinate the procedure closely with you.

In-house factoring. Wellness for the balance sheet.

Factoring makes you more attractive. For your bank, for example.

If your company has its own professional accounts receivable management, factoring also pays off for you as part of an business rejuvenation programme. This takes the form of our in-house factoring, where we take over the financing and del credere function. You benefit from immediate liquidity, 100% protection against non-payment and can optimally structure your working capital.

Freedom and liquidity. Feel-good factors for growth.

With our in-house factoring, you benefit from both. The guaranteed incoming payments give you more planning security. Your improved liquidity strengthens your position with regard to suppliers and your bank.
